Program Description: The Duke Math Meet is a one-day event bringing approximately 240 high schoolers together for a math competition which includes breakfast, breakout rooms to solve the math problems, lunch, and an awards presentation. The competition spans several rooms in Gross Hall, Biological Sciences, French, Math-Physics and possibly others depending on registration amounts. The math meet is run through the Duke Mathematics Department. More information can be found at the website: <https://www.dukemathmeet.org/>.

Duke University is continuing to monitor the situation with Covid-19. Participation in the Program could increase the Participant’s risk of contracting Covid-19. Participants should have a mask available at all times in case it is needed. The situation remains fluid and Duke, Durham, and/or the State of North Carolina could change requirements (such as reinstating an indoor mask mandate) at any time.
